ClassDojo vs Remind

ClassDojo and Remind are used by teachers with families and students for the messaging platform. The difference between ClassDojo and Remind is that ClassDojo has a point system used with students on behavior, classwork, etc. Portfolios can be collected in ClassDojo while Remind has products for administrators to use for schoolwide announcements as one example and for tutoring.

Both ClassDojo and Remind states that "Third party providers who do help us operate our Services must adhere to privacy and security obligations in a manner consistent with…" (Remind or Classdojo) Both also states "This policy does not apply to websites, services or practices of companies that we do not own or control, even if they help us operate our Services."

ClassDojo only asks for individual's name, email address or billing information and only require student's first name and initial of last name. While Remind asks for more information from both users (teachers and students).

ClassDojo provides an obvious link to their website privacy policy while Reimnd's website privacy policy is not easily accessed.

Both sites give vague information on how other companies that are not own by them handle private information and what information are access by them.
